2 (7:16 p.m.)

3 CHIEF JUSTICE HOLMES: We'll hear argument this
4 evening in Case 5-14, the application of the United
5 States for an arrest warrant against the group "TPR."

6 Mr. Ashcroft.

7 MR. ASHCROFT: Thank you.

8 Mr. Chief Justice, and may it please the 9 Court:

10 This is an institution focused towards one
11 goal and one aim - crime for their own gain. Be it
12 monetary gain or 'kicks,' they exist to feed off of this 13 Country we have maintained and work to improve. The 14 citizens of the United States should not be cowering in 15 fear of such an insidious institution when the 16 government has the ability to take action.

17 The President has declared Las Vegas in a
18 state of de facto war - primarily due to the efforts of 19 the aforementioned gang. These efforts have improved
20 the situation but by no means rectified it. Members of 21 this gang hide behind legal quirks as old as Las Vegas
22 to escape justice. Claiming to have bailed or committed
23 less crimes and then threatening our officers with suit
24 for false imprisonment. This leads to a situation where 25 our officers of the law are restrained from being able 26 to protect and serve.

1           This can be solved by a group-wide arrest
2 warrant from this Court, a measure which is eminently
3 necessary. The purpose of government is to maintain an 4 orderly society; TPR stands for a society that is the 5 antithesis of that. That is their one goal, the focus
6 of all of their activities and the reason they must be 7 stopped.

8           CHIEF JUSTICE HOLMES: Mr. Ashcroft, why is the 9 ordinary process not sufficient?

10          MR. ASHCROFT: Their danger, Mr. Chief Justice,
11 results from their status as a highly organized gang.
12 Their damage is greater than the sum of their individual
13 damage inflicted. Deprived of their institutional
14 cohesion, they would pose much less of a threat.

15          JUSTICE GINSBURG: You say their danger is 16 immediate; could you please elaborate on the urgency?

17          MR. ASHCROFT: The President has declared a
18 state of 'war' in Las Vegas. Citizens feel unsafe in 19 the heavily defended zone in the Bank of America.
20 Ordinary law enforcement, and indeed, extraordinary war
21 powers actions have not defeated the threat. The group-
22 wide arrest warrant is a constitutional last resort,
23 when the legislative and executive have run out of 24 options. This is such a situation.

25          JUSTICE GINSBURG: You're implying that both
26 branches have initiated actions against them?

1           MR. ASHCROFT: Indeed, Your Honor. The
2 legislative has created the laws they break with glee
3 and the executive has accessed every means available to 4 them.

5           JUSTICE GINSBURG: Thank you.

6           MR. ASHCROFT: As you well know, the 7 legislative cannot pass bills of attainder --

8           CHIEF JUSTICE HOLMES: On the topic of the Bank
9 of the Bank of America safe zone; is it not well enough
10 protected by law enforcement --

11          MR. ASHCROFT: -- or criminalize membership of 12 a group.

13          CHIEF JUSTICE HOLMES: -- that a group arrest
14 warrant would be superfluous?

15          MR. ASHCROFT: The safe zone is inoperable due
16 to the inability of law enforcement to be proactive.
17 They can only defend and response, not initiate action
18 themselves. The group arrest warrant would allow law
19 enforcement to act against TPR before they are in a
20 position to attack.

21          CHIEF JUSTICE HOLMES: So what I'm not clear on 22 here is why the government would need to launch an 23 offensive.

24          MR. ASHCROFT: An offensive is a poor term and 25 not the intent of the government. The intent is to 26 equip law enforcement with the tools to defeat TPR.

27          CHIEF JUSTICE HOLMES: Okay.

1           MR. ASHCROFT: The reality is that unless a TPR
2 member openly brandishes a firearm, law enforcement may
3 only watch until they commit a crime.

4           We cannot break up their staging for attacks
5 or other such scenarios.

6           CHIEF JUSTICE HOLMES: Alright, thank you, Mr.
7 Ashcroft. That's your time.

8           TPR, you may approach the lectern.

9           MR. PAWTRON: Mr. Chief Justice, I have a
10 question for you: why wasn't ARK AOS'd? LXX AOS'd?
11 Clown Mafia? But when Las Vegas has been dead for 12 months without crime due to no money and no new gangs,
13 when a new gang arises, law enforcement want them gone.
14 And then back to months without doing their job
15 effectively to protect citizens. How can you protect 16 against crime when there is none?

17           TPR is a group the kills for a cause.

18           JUSTICE GINSBURG: Kills for a cause?

19           MR. PAWTRON: For what's right. When I was 20 Bureau of Prisons Chief, there was little to no inmates
21 because of no crime. Do you really want that to happen
22 again? What's the point of having two sides (good and 23 evil) if evil is obliterated, what happens to the good
24 side?

25           You see, nobody is perfect, not even the 26 prosecutor. He supported wars which proved by fact that 27 even he wants some action in Las Vegas. And plus, TPR

1 has very few people. There are 10 law enforcement
2 agencies. Is TPR really that big of a deal? I could
3 understand VOID since they don't go to LV when they were
4 active. But TPR? I doubt. The government should've
5 used this time to train law enforcement and not
6 prosecute us.

7 JUSTICE GINSBURG: You're presenting a
8 philosophical question.

9 (Mr. Battlefists of TPR replaces Mr. Pawtron
10 at the lectern.)

11 MR. BATTLEFISTS: Mr. Chief Justice, I'd like
12 you to consider for a moment the idea of no crime
13 whatsoever at Las Vegas. Law enforcement would have 14 nothing to do. People would leave. No sense of 15 community aside from going to the Bank of America and 16 talking endlessly.

17 TPR brings activity, even law enforcement
18 admit it does --

19 JUSTICE GINSBURG: Just because a group is 20 AOS'd, it doesn't wipe them off the face of the Earth.

21 MR. BATTLEFISTS: Do you wanna bet?

22 Law enforcement have continuously said TPR has 23 brought activity to Las Vegas. Just like all previous 24 gangs did: ARK, PS-35, any gang that actually
25 accomplished something. They gave law enforcement a
26 purpose.

1           If TPR is AOS'd, they will be spawn arrested.
2   This easily, effectively wipes them off. That's all
3   that I have to say.

4           Thank you.

5           CHIEF JUSTICE HOLMES: Thank you.

6           (Mr. Zaii_Gunner of TPR replaces Mr.
7   Battlefists at the lectern.)

8           MR. ZAII_GUNNER: Greetings, Chief Justice.

9   Now, I am here to elaborate on the fact that we are
10   getting prosecuted. First off: you need to improve law
11   enforcement. They can barely aim. Second off --

12          JUSTICE GINSBURG: That's not our jurisdiction.

13          MR. ZAII_GUNNER: -- like Battle said, why
14   weren't other gangs AOS'd?

15          CHIEF JUSTICE HOLMES: I have a question. Do
16   law enforcement have better equipment than you, in 17   addition to higher numbers?

18          MR. ZAII_GUNNER: I don't get that question,
19   I'm only thirteen.

20          CHIEF JUSTICE HOLMES: Do the police have 21   better guns?

22          JUSTICE GINSBURG: Do cops have better
23   boomstick?

24          MR. ZAII_GUNNER: They spawn with weapons.
25   What's your point? Okay, let me continue.

1           Third, our goal isn't to gain power or what
2   you think; we are just a group of friends who like to
3   catch kills at Las Vegas.

4           Fourth off, this is just a game, to be honest.
5   I don't think we should get AOS'd. This is only a tag,
6   which is why we just are a group of friends.

7           CHIEF JUSTICE HOLMES: Okay, thank you, that is 8   all your time.

9           The case is submitted.
